

PRIVACY STATEMENT

Seed Technology Institute Australia Pty Ltd (STIA) is committed to protecting the privacy of its customers. The following statement explains our commitment to managing your personal information and sets out how information you may disclose to us when visiting our website might be used.

Personal information

We recognize that your privacy is important to you and you have a right to control your personal information.

The personal identifiable information that is volunteered by you such as name, address or e-mail, for example, to correspond with you or to provide you with information, will be held secure, confidential and restricted to use by STIA Directors and staff.

If you visit our website to read or download information we record the date and time of your visit and which, if any, search engine was used.

Personal information will not be released to persons or entities outside our organization without your consent except where:

- Such disclosure is permitted under the Privacy Act 1988,
- STIA is required by law to disclose information to third parties, or,
- STIA has outsourced some internal functions to third party contractors such as hosting servers, mail houses or allied seed services or technology trainers.

Third Party Websites

The STIA website contains links to other websites for convenience and information. STIA takes no responsibility for the privacy practices, or content of these websites including freedom from viruses or any other contaminating or destructive properties.

Privacy Changes

This privacy statement was formulated in January 2005.

From time to time we may use customer information for new, unanticipated uses not previously disclosed in our privacy statement. If information practices change at some time in the future we will post these changes on our website and provide you with the ability to opt out of these new uses. If you are concerned about how our information is used you should check our website periodically or contact us directly.